

The manuscript holds informational value. However, there are many statements made that are more opinionated than factual with references. Review the paper to change the tone to informational rather than opinionated.

There are several grammar errors throughout the paper. This paper could benefit from editing. Also, there are not headings in the paper which made it difficult to read and follow.

There is a table on p, with definitions. Consider using bullet points rather than a table or writing out sentences so it looks more professional.

Overall, this could be a good start to an informational article if statements that sound more opinionated are revised.
