

This article explores the research on the adoption of orphans in the city of Addis Ababa (Finfinnee) in the rural area of Ethiopia. This study uses in-depth interviews with a single gang leader man to study the adoption behavior with cultural characteristics and rituals, and at the same time reveals this A case that is different from the mystery of local adoption practices is a difficult study and the findings have implications.

Here are some suggestions for article content:

1. In the writing format of this article, chapters and paragraphs should be adjusted appropriately to comply with academic standards.
2. This article only uses one case for research. How to explain the universality of the results of this study.
3. How to triangulate the interview data in this article to prove the reliability and validity of the interview data should be explained.

If the full score is 10, this article can get 7 points.