

While I appreciate the nature of this article, please indicate why this article adds to the importance of the scientific community and a discussion of future implications.

Here is an alternative title which is more suitable:

“Re-authoring Disenfranchised Grief: Using a 6-Step Narrative Therapy”

While the abstract discusses the nature of the problem, it should also include a brief outcome of methodology and results.

There are several spelling and grammar issues with the manuscript. Please proof-read and check for these corrections.

Introduction section: Please state the research questions or hypotheses in this section.

Missing a Method Section: Please include a description of: Participants (or subjects), Materials used, Procedure used for interviews of narrative therapy sessions and a discussion of this review Design.

Please consider using references between 10-15 years. While I realize that there may be some older references due to citing Narrative Therapy theories.

While I appreciate the importance of this review article, there are spelling, grammar and sections that need to be addressed. Also, the article seemed to be quite long, please consider ways to edit some sections in order for the article not to fall more than 15 pages (excluding references)
