

The manuscript is important for the scientific community, particularly in the areas of trauma-informed research, gender studies, and public health. It provides nuanced insights into how different subtypes of childhood abuse distinctly impact adult behavioural outcomes among urban women—a population often underrepresented in psychological research. The development and use of a tailored measurement tool is also a notable methodological contribution.

The title is suitable as it clearly reflects the study's focus. However, you might consider a more specific alternative like: “Beyond ACEs: The Impact of Childhood Emotional Abuse on Adult Behavioral Outcomes in Urban Women.” This emphasizes emotional abuse as a unique focus and aligns with your key findings.

the abstract provides a clear overview of the study's background, objectives, methods, findings, and implications. It could be slightly improved by including specific statistical results (e.g., R^2 , significant β values) to strengthen its scientific clarity.

Minor grammatical revisions and sentence restructuring in a few sections (e.g., Results and Discussion) would improve clarity and flow.

The manuscript addresses a meaningful gap in trauma and behavioral research by exploring how specific childhood abuse subtypes (especially emotional abuse) influence adult outcomes in urban women—a population often overlooked in empirical research.