

This is a reasonable, original article designed to articulate how persistence is clarified in higher education. The authors underscore the importance of student success, and showcase strategies ideal to achieve this endeavor by universities. The problem I have with this manuscript is that it is not formatted in the way a scholarly article should be arranged. There are no:

Introduction

Literature review

Aims & objectives

Analysis

Discussion and

Conclusion

Once those elements are added, and the article restructured, it may be ready for publication.
