

Thank you for the opportunity to revise the manuscript and for the reviewers' thoughtful feedback. I have carefully addressed each comment and believe the manuscript is substantially improved in clarity, organization, and practical applicability.

In response to reviewer feedback requesting clearer organization in the abstract, I have revised the abstract to include explicit organizational cues that clarify the problem framing, conceptual framework, and contribution of the article. Because the manuscript is conceptual rather than empirical, I used brief, content-focused labels rather than a formal structured abstract (e.g., methods/results) to preserve conceptual accuracy while improving clarity for readers. I have also prepared a streamlined, unstructured version should the journal prefer a traditional abstract format.

The rest of the comments asked for more references and extended content so that is what has been added to the manuscript. I hope you like the changes that I have made.
