

Review comment -2

The article examines pharmacovigilance in LMIC

A slight revision, “public health issues” is somewhat broad, instead use medication-related issues.

(Note: Use of cross-sectional survey is mentioned, but not explicit about the study design)

All sections are appropriate. Materials and methods section is very strong and clear; however, pilot testing is mentioned (n=30), but no results are shown, and unclear definition of adverse health outcomes. Although present, limitations are in brief.

Some citations are more than 10 yrs old. Very relevant public health issue and interesting article, minor revisions required.
