

The article has improved, but some changes still need to be made to increase readability, which include:

To enhance reader engagement and appreciation, it is essential to expand the introduction beyond a single paragraph. This approach not only establishes the tone for the article but also demonstrates thoroughness, which is crucial for fostering confidence in the work presented.

Additionally, it is imperative that all references conform to APA formatting standards, including the year of publication when page numbers are included. Such adherence ensures that readers perceive the article as professional and accurate, which is vital for establishing trust in the information provided.

The document shall incorporate an additional section entitled "Implications for Practice." The existing section labeled "Materials and Methods" may be revised to serve as the "Implications for Practice." Furthermore, it is recommended to remove Tables 1 and 2, along with the content under the headings "Assignment," "Primary CSWE 2022 Competency," and "Specific Behavior / Learning Objectives," as this material is considered cumbersome and does not align with publication standards. Instead, it is advisable to present the information in a narrative format to enhance clarity and coherence.