

Here are a few added tips about how to strengthen this manuscript:

Issues from editing that have been clearly addressed were: Author's added a discussion of implications/future research in abstract; updated literature with newer citations (2023–2025); added rigor to methodological section which was more explicitly delineated (peer debriefing + member checking); a limitations section was added that was developed well.

A few challenges that may have been partially addressed or still need to be edited include:

*Reducing redundancy in the Introduction, Findings, and Discussion sections. Example: repetition is still noticeable in discussion section and across themes (“limited skills,” “uncertainty,” “connectivity challenges,”).

*Also, just a bit more tightening of grammar, verb tense (see Findings section).

*Make sure to include information about competing interests. If none, there needs to be a statement of “no competing interests”.

Making sure that the reference list is consistent with in-text citations can be challenging.

*Review this area one last time manually by using your reference list to search in-text to make sure that all references are cited in-text and that all in-text citations have an appropriately formatted reference.
